

Canadian Fishing Resort – Illamar Lodge

(Copy promoting resort availability and ease of planning for “last minute” travel.)

The Canadian province of British Columbia offers an abundance of outdoor activities beyond the crowded cities. But how can you combine all the needs of a modern traveler into a rustic adventure experience? Make one phone call.

Illamar Lodge will arrange your trip by seaplane from Seattle over the glaciers through the coastal wilderness known as the Hakai Pass. When you reach your destination and de-plane, take a moment to breath in the crisp, pine-scented air amidst the protected waters of Canada’s largest marine park.

As you approach the charming cabins, you are in a place where the great glaciers retreated over 10,000 years ago. And yet within the pristine natural beauty, there is also the lodge chef and baker dedicated to creating memorable meals during your stay and daily maid service to your cabin.

Spend your days fishing in trophy salmon and halibut waters, hiking in the forest, or doing yoga on a white sand beach. Enjoy sitting dockside as bald eagles soar in the sky. Dine while the sun sets in brilliant colors each evening. Prepare yourself for the millions of stars that will come out to greet you at night.

Whether a couples vacation, a guys get-away, or a corporate retreat, Illamar Lodge offers you a place to renew and recharge in the wilderness with tailored conveniences that also includes a wireless hotspot, if you chose to touch base with the outside world.

The 2017 season has begun with only a few available dates still open for a limited number of guests to experience the spectacular unspoiled nature of British Columbia. Illamar Lodge – your adventure begins here.
